

STATKING Consulting Expands Headquarters to Accommodate Larger Clinical Trials

Cincinnati, OH – May 1, 2005 – STATKING Consulting, Inc., a provider of data related services for clinical trials, has expanded its headquarters to accommodate larger, late-stage clinical trials. This additional 2500 square feet of space will be largely dedicated to case report form storage and housing the company's growing computer network. The space will be refurbished to include state of the art climate, disaster and security controls to safeguard the Client's data.

"In order to better serve our valued Clients, we need to be able to house larger, late stage (Phase III) clinical trials," said Dennis W. King, PhD, President of STATKING Consulting, Inc., "With our acquisition and the subsequent refurbishing of this space, we will be able to accommodate Phase III drug trials and pivotal PMA device studies."

The new space will accommodate areas for case report form storage and assembly and a secure computer center, as well as other office space for staff expansion. This new space will expand STATKING's ability to serve its target market of US small and midsize pharmaceutical, biotech and medical device companies.

Mr. Rod Lashley, Vice President of Statistical Programming and Data Management, said, "We listen to our Client's needs and they are telling us what we need to become their preferred service provider in data related services. We are responding to those needs."
